

GLOBAL SPORT FOR DEVELOPMENT AND PEACE KNOWLEDGE COLLABORATIVE

Call for participants in an Erasmus+ Programme

Are you interested in:

- Working with international teams and meeting students and volunteers from abroad?
- Learning how social change can be reached through sport and physical activity?
- Learning how different organisations that work all around the world use sport to tackle conflict, social inclusion, and health education?
- Learning from organisations that use sport as a tool for social change? Opportunities to meet stake holders in Sport and Development?

The project aims at contributing to innovation in the area of sport studies and development studies. It fosters participatory approaches in explaining how sport and physical activities can be harnessed as tools for further social development and the creation of social changes. Students will gain new knowledge from the area of Sport for Development and Peace, work in international groups, discuss current problems and learn from different examples of how sport can contribute to their solution.

What is the plan for this academic year?

- The course will run from 14th March until 20th March 2022 and take place at Paderborn University in Germany – this includes workshops, panel discussions, and meeting the leaders in the field.
- The course will provide the opportunity to work with students from our partner institutions on projects of international relevance. Together you will work to co-produce a presentation for delivery in May.
- The course will include attendance at the field trip in Brussels, Belgium from 15th May until 20st May 2022.

Who can participate?

bachelor and master students from the Universities of Brighton, Palacký (sport and development studies) and Paderborn.

How much will it cost?

All accommodation, flights and some spending money are provided.

How to apply?

Send your CV and motivation letter (1 page) to tereza.havlova@upol.cz no later than January 29.

If you have further questions, write to simona.safarikova@upol.cz (development studies) or arnost.svoboda@upol.cz (FTK).

